

White-Wilson Medical Center Fact Sheet

Past – Present - Future

White-Wilson Medical Center is one of the largest multi-specialty physician groups on Florida's Emerald Coast. We employ state-of-the-art technology, coupled with skilled and experienced providers, friendly and caring staff, and the convenience of "one-stop" shopping.

- White-Wilson Medical Center's (WWMC) origins go back to 1946 when Dr. Henry C. White opened the first doctor's office in Fort Walton Beach located on Brooks Street. He and his family lived upstairs so he could be on call 24 hours a day.
- In 1952, Dr. White's medical school classmate and friend, Dr. Joseph C. Wilson, joined the practice and White-Wilson was formed.
- In 1977, the clinic built a facility on Mar Walt Drive, which still operates as the main campus for WWMC today.
- WWMC currently has more than 75 physicians in 20 different specialties, making our organization one of the most comprehensive and state-of-the-art outpatient healthcare facilities in the area.
- Our organization has consistently been the first in developing and utilizing new technology. We were first in the area to offer magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) and an ultra-fast computerized tomography (CT) scanner.
- In 2011, WWMC implemented an Electronic Medical Record (EMR), which offers patients comprehensive care via one electronic medical record. Patients no longer have to transfer their medical records from department to department, and physicians can access this information instantly.
- WWMC continues to grow and expand its presence on the Emerald Coast. Newly developed service centers, such as the Center for Women's Health, the Cardiac Imaging Group, and the NeuroScience Center were designed to fill specific, defined needs within the community. We also offer a certified Diabetic Education program, ARES home sleep testing, coronary artery calcium scoring and more. We are constantly staying ahead of the curve with ever-changing healthcare technological advancements to continuously improve the quality of the healthcare services we provide our patients.
- White-Wilson Medical Center is dedicated to providing the community with the highest quality healthcare services - now and into the future. We are continuously working toward our vision of being "the healthcare provider of choice on the Emerald Coast".
